

The City worked with several agencies to establish a quiet zone in Old Town. Trains traveling through the neighborhood no longer sound their horn now unless there is an immediate safety concern.

Whistle Stop: Railroad Quiet Zone Established in Old Town

While many community improvements are evident after the recently-completed 5th Street/Kinsman Road Extension project, one is hard to notice. You can't see it. You certainly can't hear it. And that's the point.

Since early January, a "quiet zone" has been in place between the railroad crossings on 5th Street and Wilsonville Road. This new designation means that passing trains no longer sound their horn as they approach these two crossings unless there is an immediate safety issue.

The quiet zone designation makes for much more peaceful days — and nights — for occupants of the Old Town neighborhood.

"There are a number of freight trains that travel through the neighborhood at all hours of the day and night," said city engineer Zach Weigel. "Operators would have to sound their horns every time they came to a crossing, no matter the time. At 110 decibels, that horn was really loud. I live a mile away and I could hear it."

The 5th Street/Kinsman Road Extension is one of the last projects completed within the Year 2000 Urban Renewal Area. While this major piece of infrastructure development provides a much-needed connection to mitigate traffic congestion on the City's west side, occupants of Old Town voiced concerns during the planning stages about extra vehicle traffic entering their neighborhood.

Weigel and the City's engineering team responded by including several traffic-calming Improvements — including extending the sidewalk on Boones Ferry

Road, and raising the intersection and installing new crosswalks at the 5th Street/Boones Ferry Road intersection. These improvements are designed to slow vehicles and improve safety for all roadway users, including pedestrians and bicyclists.

Because the project required the installation of a new railroad crossing at 5th Street, the project team saw an opportunity to create a quiet zone to help reduce the frequent sound of train horns.

Crafting this half-mile of respite required years of collaboration with three different agencies: the Oregon Department of Transportation, Rail Division; the Federal Railroad Administration; and Portland & Western Railroad.

"The quiet zone safety study, from start to implementation, took five years," Weigel said.

To achieve implementation of the quiet zone, additional railroad crossing improvements were required, including medians, gates, signal equipment, additional road striping, and several road signs at the new 5th Street crossing. The Wilsonville Road crossing also needed improvements, including a driveway closure near Key Bank and some additional striping and signage.

By year's end, that checklist was complete. The new roadway now provides a significant upgrade to the City's infrastructure while delivering the invisible gift of silence.

"We know it was a long two years for people living and working near the route," Weigel said. "It's nice to be able to deliver this project with an added benefit that significantly improves livability by providing some newfound quiet."

Mayor's Message

Our Livability, As Well As Our Passion, Rate High in Wilsonville

If you are interested in becoming more connected with Wilsonville, May is the perfect time. I invite you to join us at City Hall on May 6, for my annual State of the City address.

The address provides an opportunity to highlight the City Council's recent progress toward our vision of a clean, green, and safe community for all, and to look ahead at the challenges and opportunities that await in the months and years ahead.

Preparing these remarks gives me time to consider what sets Wilsonville apart. Like many, I moved here after visiting friends and recognizing just how much Wilsonville has to offer.

What makes our city so livable? What helps people feel a sense of belonging here? What makes investing in Wilsonville viable for business operators (thus building our local tax base and funding improvements and amenities)?

Wilsonville's evolution has occurred thoughtfully, over decades, with a well-formulated and well-executed long-term plan informed by passionate input, oversight and guidance from residents and other stakeholders. We have a proud history of people showing up, speaking up, and building community together.

Guiding Wilsonville's future is a partnership among residents, businesses, our schools and many other partners in local governance. Over the years, we've worked to honor our agricultural roots and to protect our rural reserves and natural resources. It's no accident that Wilsonville maintains its small-town charm amidst decades of rapid regional growth.

State of the City Address
Mon, May 6, 7 pm
Wilsonville City Hall
29799 SW Town Ctr. Loop E.

We're forward-thinking, and have a proud history of fighting to secure a better future. History shines on decisions made long ago to secure our water rights on the Willamette River, develop our own SMART Transit system, and develop Villebois where the State wanted to build a prison, among so many others.

More recent efforts — to address persistent safety and traffic problems with State and Federal decision makers to advance the construction of a new Boone Bridge, to modernize the Town Center, to improve the safety of our roadways, to add pedestrian-friendly routes, to make home buying more affordable — intend to make our city even better for a new generation of Wilsonville families.

Our high standards, preparation, and continuity of vision have earned us respect in legislative circles. We come to the table prepared, engaged, and with clear legislative priorities. We have a track record of procuring grant funding that supports projects that serve Wilsonville's diverse needs.

As anyone who lives here knows, Wilsonville residents and businesses care and are involved. Our passion for this community is high. That passion is our strength, which is never more evident than in an election year. We share a strong desire to protect our interests and to see Wilsonville flourish, and that's heartening. That passion means we truly have built a special place together.

It's my honor to work on your behalf to honor our city's proud heritage, and to help guide a future that builds our prosperity and creates a sense of place for everyone who calls Wilsonville home.

Supporting the Library is Easy: Stay Home. Read. Donate.

The Wilsonville Public Library Foundation (WPFL) invites patrons to participate in Stay at Home and Read, its 2024 fundraising event.

From May 16-19, the WPFL encourages library supporters to stay home with a good book, and to support library programs by donating money typically spent on a date night or family outing.

“Spend an evening at home with a great book and donate the money you saved,” encouraged Bob Renfro, President of the Wilsonville Public Library Foundation. “This year, a generous donor is matching donations dollar for dollar, doubling the impact of each donation.”

Through the Wilsonville Public Library Foundation, the community’s generosity supports several Library programs, including Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library, which supports youth literacy by mailing books free of charge to Wilsonville children every month until their fifth birthday.

Additionally, WPLF funds Little Free Libraries throughout the community, the summer Science Adventure program, and reading lessons at childcare centers, preschools, and primary schools.

For more information on the foundation’s work, or to make an online donation, visit wplf.org. Donations can be also be made in person at the Wilsonville Public Library.

Wilsonville Public Library Foundation members, Library Board members and Library staff get a head start on the WPFL’s May fundraiser.

Local Fourth Grader Turns His LEGO Passion into Purpose

Holden Brower, a fourth-grader at Cecile Trost Elementary School and resident of Wilsonville’s Charbonneau district, is making an impact in his community.

Brower, 10, is a local ambassador for Pass the Bricks, a non-profit organization with the mission to repurpose used LEGO bricks into “new” sets for children in need.

“I love building vehicles with LEGO bricks,” shares Holden, whose enthusiasm for creativity and construction shines through in his own favorite LEGO projects.

Brower’s passion for LEGO building and a desire to make a difference has fueled his work to spread awareness and collect LEGO donations. Recently, he displayed his resourcefulness by visiting Bricks & Minifigs in Canby, in hopes that they might have surplus bricks available for donation.

Pass the Bricks sees each brick as an opportunity to support cognitive and emotional development of children in underserved and/or marginalized communities. As an added benefit, the program is diverting LEGO bricks from storage or landfills.

Those with LEGOs to donate can amplify Brower’s work and match his compassionate spirit by dropping off LEGO sets or pieces at the Wilsonville Public Library’s donation bin during Library hours.

For more information, call 503-682-2744.

City Dedicating New Complex with Tours, Ribbon Cutting

Earlier this year, the City’s Public Works department moved into its new home on Boberg Road. The new Public Works Complex was thoughtfully designed to support maintenance of the City’s infrastructure and to serve as an incident response center during emergencies.

Public Works Complex
Tours, Ribbon-Cutting
Sat, May 18, 11 am-2 pm
28625 SW Boberg Rd.

The City is holding a ribbon-cutting ceremony and providing public tours of the Complex on Saturday, May 18, from 11 am to 2 pm. The ceremony kicks off National Public Works Week, May 19- 25, held annual to recognize the work public works professionals do to enhance the quality of life their communities.

Built to optimize efficiency, the Public Works Complex includes administrative offices, a warehouse, a vehicle washing station, and ample space for equipment to streamline maintenance and operations activities.

“Previously, public works operations were scattered across the city,” said Public Works Director Delora Kerber. “Now, everything is in one secure, seismically-resilient central location, which is a significant step forward as it enhances our team’s efficiency and ability to serve our community’s needs.”

The building showcases the City’s commitment to sustainability with roof-top solar panels and energy-saving lighting and HVAC systems.

The only Seismic Class 4 building in the City, the administration building is designed to be operational immediately after a moderate level shaking event. It houses the City’s incident response center, where City staff will coordinate with other regional, county, and local government agencies during emergencies and natural disasters. This means that even in the face of a seismic event, public works operations can continue to respond and help the community recover more quickly after an emergency.

“Public works staff are often the first to respond and the last to leave during an emergency,” said Public Works Operations Manager Martin Montalvo. “Having our facilities in one place enables our staff to work more effectively and means we can restore services more quickly during emergencies.”

The City’s new Public Works Complex on Boberg Rd. centralizes maintenance activities and provides a seismic-resilient emergency operations center.

The new administration building features gender-neutral locker rooms with separate showers, laundry facilities, and a break room with a fully-equipped kitchen.

“For staff who work long hours or have overnight shifts during emergencies, these features are especially crucial,” Montalvo said.

Sign Up for Public Alerts Now; Know ASAP When Emergencies Happen

In 2022, when the cities of Wilsonville and Sherwood announced a voluntary water curtailment notice, the cities worked with Emergency Managers in Clackamas and Washington Counties to push the message out to the public via Public Alerts, the region’s emergency messaging service.

Quick, accurately-delivered communication may be critical when the next emergency strikes. Wilsonville residents are encouraged to opt-in to receive critical emergency messaging via Public Alerts.

Important messages that could be relayed include notices to evacuate or shelter-in-place, shelter locations, evacuation notices, changes in air quality, boil water notices and other information to help ensure public safety.

With online signup, you can choose to receive notifications via e-mail, cell phone call, and/or text message. The system is pre-programmed with land line phone numbers, listed and unlisted, from telephone company records.

Opt-in enrollment in the PublicAlerts notification system is the only way to receive alerts by:

- Cell phone
- Voice Over Internet Protocol (VOIP)
- E-mail
- TTY/TDD Devices

There is no fee to sign up and no fee to receive PublicAlert notifications. Enroll online by visiting publicalerts.org/signup and selecting your county of residence and/or employment. Alerts are sent only when your associated address is affected by a public emergency.

There is no limit to the amount of accounts that can be associated to one address. It is recommended that each family member register their own devices separately.

If an alert call is picked up by answering machine, the system leaves a message and does not call back. If the number is busy or there is no answer, the system tries other methods of delivery.

For more information on the PublicAlerts emergency communication system, visit clackamas.us/dm/publicalerts

Pile Driving Now Set for Mid-May at Boeckman Dip Bridge Site

Pile driving activities to advance the construction of a new bridge over the “Boeckman Dip” are now expected to begin in mid- to late-May. This work will take place each weekday between 8 am and 6 pm, and is expected to continue for three to four weeks.

Residents in the vicinity of the construction area should anticipate elevated noise levels while pile driving takes place. Homes near the site may experience vibrations.

Pile driving pushes vertical steel beams deep into the ground to create the foundation of a strong bridge that can withstand heavy loads and natural disasters.

“The contractor is working to complete the project as quickly and safely as possible,” said Andrew Barrett, the City’s Capital Projects Engineering Manager. “The work can be disruptive, but is necessary to deliver a safe roadway on this vital corridor. Your patience is appreciated.”

As pile driving occurs, City engineers gather data from vibration monitors placed at key locations in the work area to ensure that vibrations do not pose a threat to nearby structures.

A start date for this work is to be announced as construction nears. To receive this notice and other notifications of changing traffic patterns and construction progress:

- Text BOECKMAN to 866-935-0125 for text alerts; standard data and messaging rates apply.
- Visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/boeckman to sign up for e-mail updates.

What to Look For: Help Protect White Oaks from Invasive Pest

With the arrival of spring, as Wilsonville’s trees begin to bear leaves, changes to some of the City’s iconic Oregon white oak trees may be evident.

In the late summer of 2023 the invasive Mediterranean Oak Borer (MOB) beetle was observed in Wilsonville. This tiny beetle does major damage to these majestic oak trees by tunneling into the trunk of the tree to farm fungi to feed its brood. The fungi depletes the trees resources and eventually kills the tree.

As one of the communities most impacted by MOB, Wilsonville is working to reduce the spread of the pest throughout Oregon and preserve our City’s Oregon white oaks. In partnership with State agencies, Wilsonville is establishing best practices for both preventative and mitigative tree care.

To support state-wide efforts to protect these trees, the best thing homeowners can do is provide proper care. Prune broken branches, quickly address pests that may be draining resources from the trees, and monitor trees closely. If summer is hot and dry, water your oak trees overnight once in mid-summer. Consult with an arborist before proceeding with a tree care plan.

Even if you do not own an Oregon white oak, you can help prevent the spread of MOB. Do not transport firewood, which is a favorite method for invasive species to spread. Also, keep your eyes peeled for signs and symptoms of MOB, including:

- Thinning of the tree’s crown
- Dieback in main scaffold branches, rust colored leaves on a singular leader branch
- Frass, white boring dust left behind
- Small borer entry/exit holes

If you spot an oak in poor health, report the tree to the Oregon Invasive Species hotline and call the City of Wilsonville to report suspicion of MOB. Finally, help us spread the word!

The more people who know how to identify infestation, the more partners we have in our fight for the health of our beautiful Oregon white oaks. Learn more at ci.wilsonville.or.us/mob

Mulch: It’s Easy to Apply, and the Benefits for Trees are Numerous

Mulching is one of the most simple but beneficial things you can do to care for your trees.

Spring is a great time of year to refresh mulch around your trees, or to create mulch circles. A mulch ring helps to retain soil moisture and moderate soil temperature in a tree’s critical root zone, and also helps reduce soil compaction, improve soil structure, protect trunks and roots from lawn mower damage, and minimize weed growth.

To much mulch can suffocate the root zone; mulch piled against the trunk can cause decay. Apply mulch when needed to maintain 2- to 4-inches of cover.

Arborist wood chips are the best type of organic mulch for trees and shrubs. They include small and large pieces ground from removed trees and pruned branches. Green leafy parts break down quickly to add nutrients to the soil, while brown woody parts decompose slowly providing benefits for up to three years.

POLICE CHIEF'S CORNER

Behind the Wheel, Keep Your Focus on the Road (Not Your Phone)

Oregon's cell phone laws are designed to enhance road safety and prevent accidents caused by distracted driving. It shouldn't surprise you to learn that using a cell phone while driving poses a significant risk to yourself and others on the road.

Police Chief Rob Wurpes

It is crucial to understand the laws, penalties, and statistics associated with cell phone usage while driving in our state. In Oregon, it is illegal for drivers to use handheld electronic devices, including cell phones, while operating a motor vehicle.

The rule prohibits texting, making phone calls, browsing the internet, or any other form of manual data entry. The driver's primary focus should always be on driving safely and attentively, without distractions.

Statistics reveal the sobering reality of distracted driving. According to recent data available at DoSomething.org, texting while driving can make a crash up to 23 times more likely. Additionally, while 97% of teens agree that texting while driving is dangerous, 43% of them do it anyway.

Locally, the Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT) released a 2023 report finding between 2016 and 2020, distracted driving was a factor in more 15,000 crashes, resulting in 186 deaths and approximately 24,000 injuries.

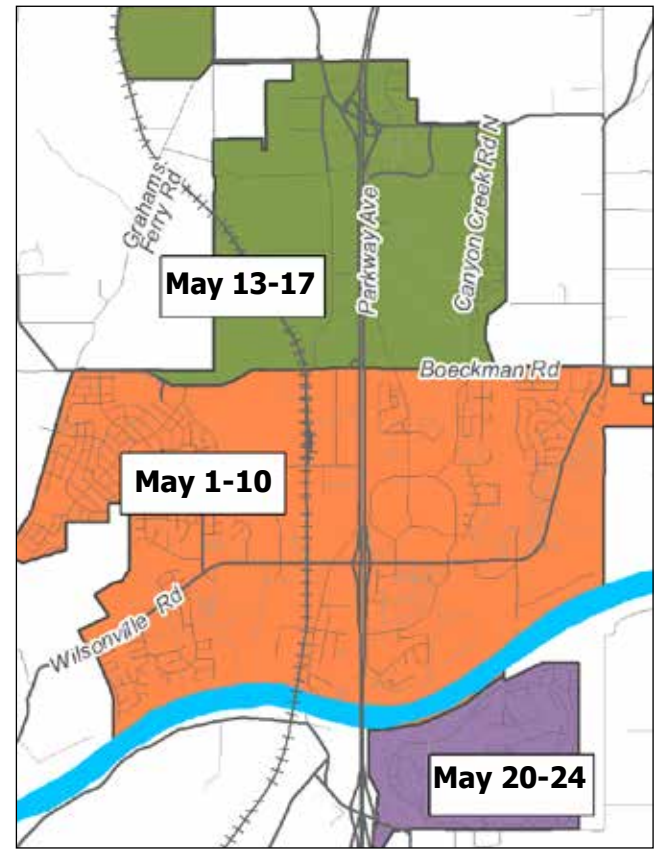

Between 2016-2020, distracted driving contributed to 15,000 crashes in Oregon.

Violating cell phone laws can result in penalties. A first offense can cost $265, the second can increase to $440. A third offense can lead to criminal charges if you have previous convictions within the last 10 years. If you cause a crash while using your phone, your license can be suspended. We don't want this for anyone.

Please, prioritize safety behind the wheel by staying focused and avoiding distractions, including cell phone use. Remember that no text, call, or notification is worth risking lives. Let's work together to make our roads safer and ensure that everyone reaches their destination safely.

The City's 2024 schedule for water main flushing: Zone 1 (orange), May 1-10; Zone 2 (green), May 13-17; Zone 3 (purple), May 20-24.

City Crews to Flush Water Mains; Rust-Colored Water May Appear

Public Works utility crews are scheduled to complete the annual flushing of the City's water mains this month.

Flushing water lines scours out mineral deposits to ensure optimal water quality and helps to maintain the City's infrastructure by exercising hydrants, valves and blow-off assemblies and verifying their operability.

Water flushed from fire hydrants often appears to be orange or rust-colored. The discoloration is caused by iron deposits stirred up and removed during the flushing process.

After crews complete flushing in your neighborhood, it is recommended that you wait 20-30 minutes or more to greatly reduce your chance of pulling discolored water into your home plumbing system.

Discolored water poses no health threat if consumed. This water has been fully disinfected.

If you observe discolored water, the following steps are recommended:

- Run your cold water fixtures for several minutes.
- Flush your toilets multiple times.

Typically, water begins to run clear within minutes. Avoid washing light-colored laundry during and immediately after lines are flushed; discolored water may cause these items to stain. As a precaution, wash a load of dark clothes first once your tap water runs clear.

If you observe crews flushing in your area, please give them room to work safely. If you have any questions or concerns regarding the City's annual water main flushing, please call the Public Works Department at 503-682-4092.

Resident Uses New Platform to Advocate for Mental Health Support

Wilsonville resident Tabi Traughber serves on the board of NAMI Clackamas, a grassroots organization dedicated to improving the quality of life for those impacted by mental health issues through education, support, and advocacy.

Traughber has stepped up her advocacy efforts after earning the title of "Mrs. Wilsonville 2024" in the Mrs. Oregon America pageant. Mental health awareness was a natural platform for Traughber, who cites her own lived experience with post-traumatic stress disorder, anxiety and depression as survivor of rape. She also lost her sister, Tami, to suicide in 2011.

"So many people suffer from mental illness and need mental wellness," Traughber said. "Unfortunately, there is still a stigma associated with needing or looking for help and we need to come together to stomp out that stigma."

Not long after her sister passed, Traughber discovered NAMI (National Alliance on Mental Illness) Sacramento, where she created a walking team — Tami's Lotus Flowers — to honor her sister's memory. When she relocated to Wilsonville in 2021, Traughber continued her walking team and now serves locally as NAMI Walk Chair. Her next walk takes place on May 18 at Portland's Peninsula Park. Anyone may register to walk at namicc.org/namiwalks.

Traughber encourages anyone seeking help to talk to someone, and notes that NAMI Clackamas has expanded its mental health services in the past year to accommodate additional peer support groups.

"The pandemic was tough on everyone and many people are still dealing with a lot of trauma and tragedy," she said.

Traughber is building community by organizing community events like the monthly "Sip & Shop at Ordinance Brewing - Wilsonville," "The Annual Frog Pond Community Garage & Vendor Sale," the upcoming "Flicks on the Bricks," and a National Night Out event in August.

Through NAMI Clackamas, she's worked to support the expansion of the 9-8-8 mental health crisis line for mental health emergencies.

Wilsonville resident Tabi Traughber at a NAMI Walk event with her family to honor the memory of her sister. A board member at NAMI Clackamas, Traughber advocates for better mental health awareness and support.

"We don't know everyone's story and that many people are hurting," cautions Traughber, who encourages people to share love and positivity. "A smile, kind gesture, a compliment, a hug and just sincere appreciation can change someone's day and maybe even their life!"

Clean, High-Quality Water Delivered to your Tap: We'll Drink to That!

You turn on the tap, and the water's there. Easy, right?

Water providers across the region, including the City of Wilsonville, work daily to make sure your water is always there when you need it.

Drinking Water Week, May 5-11, is an opportunity for local communities to build awareness about the high quality of our region's water, the infrastructure needed to deliver it from the source to your home, and the people who make it happen. The Portland-metro area is fortunate to have multiple high-quality water sources to serve residents and business operators.

The City is a member of the Regional Water Providers Consortium, a group of 26 water providers that have worked together for more than 25 years to provide leadership in the planning, management, stewardship, and resiliency of drinking water in the greater Portland area.

This year, the Consortium celebrates the 50-year anniversary of the Safe Drinking Water Act. Learn more at bit.ly/h2o-quality.

Bags! Parks Crew Builds New Fun Near Memorial Park Fields

When Parks & Rec. crew gets an idea, the public often gets a new amenity. This time, it's an all-new ADA-accessible 'bags' board, which the Parks crew designed, fashioned, and installed at lower Memorial Park, near the sports fields. Currently, it's BYOB (bring your own bags); Parks staff is hoping to set up a method that would allow people to check out and return bags.

Development of Natural Areas Management Plan Gets Underway

A City of Wilsonville project is underway to develop a Natural Areas Management Plan that provides guidance for the care and enhancement of the City's natural areas and greenspaces.

The City is working in partnership with Ash Creek Forest Management (ACFM), a local habitat restoration company, to develop the Plan. ACFM has been working in the habitat restoration industry for 27 years, partnering with several local entities to support restoration efforts throughout the Willamette Valley.

Natural areas and greenspaces are invaluable to communities and the surrounding landscapes. Identifying existing conditions (such as the presence of non-native plants) and compiling a comprehensive management plan supports a more ecologically-resilient future for Wilsonville by prioritizing projects to enhance and improve the City's natural areas.

Soon, the City and ACFM will provide more information and solicit feedback on the plan at "Let's Talk, Wilsonville!" For more information, contact Kerry Rappold, Natural Resources Manager, at rappold@ci.wilsonville.or.us, 503-570-1570, or Parks Maintenance Supervisor Dustin Schull, dschull@ci.wilsonville.or.us, 503-570-1544.

Celebrating our Shared Humanity on Juneteenth

By Jay Edwards

In the recent past, these pages have described Juneteenth as an opportunity to celebrate "our shared humanity", and this is well-put.

By way of background, on June 19, 1865, 2,000 Union troops arrived in Galveston Bay, Texas, the last stop of their tour to announce the existence of the Emancipation Proclamation. By the time they reached the southeast shore of Texas, the Proclamation had been the law of the land in the United States for more than two years.

The announcement immediately freed 250,000 enslaved Black Texans. Yet it did much more than end the scourge of chattel slavery for these quarter-million individuals, and millions of others across the nation. On that day, our nation unleashed the full potential of all of its people to create and to contribute to the nation's growth and development.

Despite significant headwinds, we are still working to realize this potential today.

On June 19, 5-7 pm in Town Center Park, we'll gather once again to celebrate our shared humanity and our common freedom.

The theme of this year's Juneteenth Celebration is Freedom to Create & Contribute, and will feature a keynote by Kimberly Howard Wade, the executive director of Caldera Arts (calderaarts.org). I have the privilege of working with this organization, which does phenomenal work in the region using the intersection of art, outdoor camps, and mentoring to serve and inspire at-risk youth. The organization also supports creatives and cultural workers as they seek to build skills and relationships to expand their reach and impact.

If you attended last year, you'll be excited to know that deejay Bryson Wallace will be gracing us again to spin music. Several community partners are joining us to provide wonderful opportunities to learn, engage and connect as a Wilsonville community.

Engagement can be hungry work. Food is being provided by Café Yumm. This free event, is being planned and executed by the City's Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee. It is made possible through the generous support of local sponsors — a list that includes our presenting sponsor, Swire Coca-Cola, as well as Hilton Garden Inn, Oregon Institute of Technology, and Columbia Distributing.

We look forward to seeing you there to rejoice in our shared humanity!

Celebrate Juneteenth at Town Center Park on June 19

Wilsonville’s fourth annual Juneteenth Celebration is set to take place at Town Center Park on Wednesday, June 19, from 5-7 pm

Presented by the City’s Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee, the event is designed to bring people of all races, nationalities and religions together to celebrate our shared humanity and acknowledge history that continues to influence society today.

This year’s theme is “Freedom to Create & Contribute,” and features a keynote by Kimberly Howard Wade, the executive director of Caldera Arts, which empowers and inspires at-risk youth through art, environment, and mentoring. Caldera also supports creatives and cultural workers as they seek to build skills and relationships to further their efforts.

KMHD’s Bryson Wallace will be spinning music, and several community partners are joining us to engage and connect with the Wilsonville community.

This free event, is being planned and executed by the City’s Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee. It is made possible through the generous support of local sponsors.

This year’s platinum sponsor is Swire Coca-Cola. Silver sponsors include Hilton Garden Inn, Oregon Institute of Technology, and Columbia Distributing.

Juneteenth is believed to be the nation’s oldest nationally-celebrated commemoration of the ending of slavery. In 1866, Texans celebrated the first anniversary of the day word arrived in Galveston on June 19, 1865, that slavery had been abolished. The anniversary is marked by community celebrations throughout the United States.

ODOT Seeking to Advance Earthquake-Ready I-5 Boone Bridge

An earthquake-resistant I-5 Boone Bridge is critical to support emergency response and access to critical goods and services for Wilsonville and the greater metro region.

The I-5 Boone Bridge Replacement Project, an Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT) priority project, would provide a bridge that can withstand a major earthquake.

There is about a 40% chance that a powerful 9.0 Cascadia Subduction Zone earthquake will occur in the next 50 years, severely impacting bridges and other infrastructure throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Only a few of the 2,700 state-owned bridges in Oregon are designed to withstand the shaking of a Cascadia-level earthquake. Because not every bridge can be replaced or retrofitted, ODOT is focusing its efforts on prioritizing Oregon’s critical “lifeline routes,” including the I-5 Boone Bridge.

ODOT is currently constructing seismic upgrades to the Abernethy Bridge on I-205. Located nearly 15 miles from the Boone Bridge, Abernethy Bridge will be the first earthquake ready bridge across the Willamette River in the Portland area.

For Wilsonville and other nearby communities, as well as the entire State of Oregon and the West Coast, the Boone Bridge is a critical roadway. It likely would not survive a major earthquake; neither would Oregon City’s Hwy 43 Arch Bridge or the Hwy 219 St. Paul Bridge in Newberg, each about 14 road miles from the I-5 Boone Bridge.

Last fall, ODOT held two open houses, one online and one in-person in Wilsonville, to hear from communities in the Boone Bridge project area. About 34% of I-5 motorists are worried about earthquakes and other disasters.

As ODOT continues the early Planning Environmental Linkages, or PEL phase, the agency is working with the City of Wilsonville, Clackamas County, other interested parties, and the community to explore viable options for replacing the Boone Bridge to make it earthquake ready. ODOT is working with partners across the region and the Legislature to identify resilient funding solutions to maintain a safe, accessible and sustainable transportation system.

Primary Election Ballots Must Be Returned by May 21

The deadline for voters to submit their ballots for the primary election is Tuesday, May 21.

In Oregon, ballots arrive by mail weeks before election day. They may be returned by mail or dropped in a ballot return box in Clackamas or Washington County. Wilsonville’s ballot return is located in the City Hall parking lot (29799 SW Town Center Loop E.).

Three ballot measures are to be considered by Wilsonville voters:

Measure 3-605 asks voters to consider whether Urban Renewal should be used by the City as a funding mechanism to implement many of the high-priority infrastructure improvements outlined in the 2019 Wilsonville Town Center Plan.

Measure 3-608 asks if the City’s charter should be amended to exempt days of an appointment to Council from calculation when less than 365.25 days?

Measure 3-609 asks if the City’s charter should be amended to allow a two-term City Councilor the opportunity to serve two consecutive terms as Mayor.

Should Measure 3-608 or Measure 3-609 pass Mayor Julie Fitzgerald would be eligible to seek a new four-year term. Should both measures fail, Fitzgerald would not meet eligibility requirements to seek re-election this November.

For links to ballot tracking, voter information pamphlets, official results of the May 21 election, and additional information, visit the City’s website: ci.wilsonville.or.us/administration/page/elections-1

Share Your Story! Housing Survey Participants Could Win $50 Gift Card

More than half of renters in Wilsonville — and about a quarter of homeowners — are rent burdened. Are you? By sharing your story about how housing costs are impacting you and/or your family, you just might win $50.

The City is seeking to gather perspectives from people who spend one-third of their income or more on housing costs. How does this burden impact daily life? Responses to a short survey will inform the Housing Our Future Project, which is aiming to develop new strategies to meet the City’s housing needs.

The survey is open until May 15. When it closes, the City will randomly select 10 survey participants to receive a $50 gift card from any Wilsonville retailer. We’d love to hear your story.

Republic Services Puts Styrofoam Recycling Program on Pause

In March, Republic Services and other Portland-area waste and recycling haulers stopped accepting polystyrene (Styrofoam) as a recyclable product because the product can no longer be processed locally.

Haulers were sending polystyrene to Agilyx in Tigard, the only regional facility with polystyrene processing capabilities. Recently, Agilyx elected to end its polystyrene recycling program. Since polystyrene can no longer be processed locally, the recycling program is suspended until further notice.

All polystyrene materials should be bagged separately and included with curbside waste.

City Set to Celebrate LGBTQIA+ Pride Month with Mural, Reception

In June, the City is celebrating Pride Month with a temporary mural to be painted on the glass exterior of the Parks and Recreation Administration Building (29600 SW Park Place).

The mural, to be visible throughout June, provides visual representation to uplift, recognize and celebrate members of Wilsonville’s LGBTQIA+ community. The project is a collaboration between the City’s Arts, Culture, and Heritage Commission (ACHC) and its Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) Committee.

“While the mural celebrates Pride month, the hope is that everyone who lives, works, or goes to school in Wilsonville feels a sense of belonging year-round,” said Erika Pham, DEI Committee chair.

In celebration of the City’s LGBTQIA+ community members, the City is hosting a reception to view the Pride Month mural. The City is distributing a limited-edition Wilsonville Pride pin at the event, which takes place on Saturday, June 1, from 2 to 4 pm, and features light refreshments and a Pride-themed StoryTime from the Wilsonville Public Library.

“As a member of the Arts, Culture, and Heritage Commission I am excited about this project as another way to strengthen our community relationships,” said Deborah Zundel, Chair of Arts, Culture, and Heritage

Commission. “Art brings us together and helps us understand one another, and I am excited to see this mural in Wilsonville.”

The ACHC initiated a call for artists, and selected a local artist to design and paint the Pride Month mural. The mural, and more information about the artist, will be featured in the June issue of the Boones Ferry Messenger.

Pride celebrations first took place in June 1970 to commemorate the first anniversary of the Stonewall riots, a series of gay liberation protests that took place 1969. LGBTQIA+ Pride Month has been celebrated more formally in the United States since 1999, when a presidential declaration officially recognized Pride Month.

Wilsonville Pride pins are available to guests attending the June 2 Pride Month mural reception.

Indigenous Speaker Addresses Building of Community Through Culture

The City’s Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) Speaker Series continues on Thursday, May 30, at 6 pm at the Wilsonville campus of Clackamas Community College (29353 SW Town Center Loop E).

The featured speaker is Renee Roman Nose; her presentation is entitled “Building Community Through Culture.”

The Native American Student Success Coordinator for the Oregon Department of Education discusses how community is not just a neighborhood, not simply a place to go, it’s something visceral. She explores community building from an Indigenous perspective, challenging perceptions and widening understanding of how integral we each are to our communities and how we can help build and strengthen those communities.

DEI Speakers Series events are free, and include light refreshments.

Established and curated by the City’s Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee, the series provides a forum for open discussion on topics critical to understanding the lived experience of historically marginalized community members.

Previous DEI Speaker Series events are available for viewing on the City’s YouTube channel. Visit bit.ly/DEI\_Speakers
