

Start Waving Summer Goodbye; School is Back in Session

On August 27, Wilsonville schools welcomed students for the 2018-19 school year. Meet the new principal at Lowrie Primary and learn a few safety tips to pass on to kids who will be home alone after school for the first time (page 7).

City Narrows in on Preferred Design for New Wayfinding Signage

The City's project to develop well-designed, coordinated wayfinding signage throughout Wilsonville is one step closer to fruition.

A recent online open house and community survey weighed public opinion on three preliminary design concepts. Results revealed a distinct preference for the "undulating stone" design that features corten (treated metal) signage with a rock base. The design bears resemblance to the Murase Plaza sign at Memorial Park.

"That was definitely a strong design influence," said Mary Stewart, of Alta Planning, the City's design partner. "We wanted our concepts to blend well with the existing elements in use. When we began our research, we documented the design language of existing natural and architectural elements found around town. We incorporated these local materials into the visual identity exercises for the wayfinding stakeholder group. The preferred materials from that exercise were integrated into the three sign family concepts."

"We wanted our concepts to blend well with the existing elements in use."

Nearly 200 people provided feedback on styles, colors, shapes and source materials of each of the three designs presented. The corten sign received high marks for its shape, colors and materials. The gabion (wire cage) style containment of the river rocks was one element that wasn't well received, and is being altered.

"We've reviewed 200+ comments on what people liked about the design, and what they would change," Stewart said. "We are incorporating this information into new designs that refine shapes, explore different color options, base options and materials."

A public open house and online survey revealed the community's preference for a preliminary design (top) inspired by existing elements, including the sign at Murase Plaza (bottom).

With City planners, Alta is developing a preferred design concept that is scheduled to be presented at the Sept. 12 meeting of the Planning Commission.

The final Design Intent Package, informed by Planning Commission feedback, is scheduled to be presented to City Council for consideration in October.

For more information about the project, contact Chris Neamtzu, Planning Director, 503-570-1574, neamtzu@ci.wilsonville.or.us, or go online at ci.wilsonville.or.us/wayfinding.

SUMMER OF FUN

A fun-filled summer featured (clockwise from top) National Night Out, Movies in the Park, the Wellness Fair and four Wilsonville Rotary Concerts, among other well-attended community events. Mayor's Message

Preparation Can Go a Long Way In the Event of an Emergency

Of course, it is only natural to want to avoid thinking about catastrophe. We'd rather not imagine how our lives could be upended by an event that took away — even temporarily — any or all of the necessities we take for granted. Water, power, waste disposal, food, communications, fuel, safe roads ... the list goes on.

As part of emergency management, local governments focus on mitigating potential damage, preparing for disaster, training to respond to emergencies and planning for recovery from disaster. In the event of any emergent crisis, City of Wilsonville staff — through coordination with county, state and federal agencies — would act quickly, with the goal of minimizing loss of life, injuries and property damage.

During an event of this nature, the immediate City priorities would likely include protecting or rebuilding critical infrastructure, including the restoration of major roads and drinking water systems.

The sobering reality here is that most residents and businesses could be without critical City services for 48 to 72 hours, or even longer.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) designates each September as Emergency Preparedness Month. This annual awareness campaign is aimed at reminding people how best to prepare and protect their loved ones. The campaign is supported by state and local agencies, including our partners in Washington County and Clackamas County.

Take a look inside this month's Boones Ferry Messenger (page 5) for a list of items every home should have and a few easy-to-accomplish tasks you can complete to be a little more prepared. Additionally, you will see a list of websites that provide extensive emergency preparation information and resources.

Also, consider attending the preparedness fair, hosted at Wilsonville's LDS Church on Saturday, Sept. 8, at 11 am.

If you do nothing else, begin a dialogue with your family, friends and neighbors about how you might come together in the event of an emergency. Build your community, support one another, and know who you might turn to for assistance.

Every small step you take to remain prepared for an emergency could make a big difference when it matters most.

Tim Knapp, Mayor

City Seeks Public Input on Arts, Heritage and Culture for Wilsonville

Working with the Clackamas County Arts Alliance, the City is undertaking a community enhancement program project to craft Wilsonville's 'Public Investment Strategy for Arts, Heritage & Culture.'

To begin this effort, the City is conducting an online survey to gauge community members' thoughts and desires related to arts and culture.

The survey is available until Oct. 7 at ci.wilsonville.or.us/Arts&CultureSurvey.

The City seeks to develop a strategic plan for public investment in Wilsonville arts and culture, to determine an appropriate level of community support for artistic and cultural activities and create tactics for developing resources to advance community support.

Working with the Arts Alliance and Taylor Consulting, the City will conduct interviews, lead community meetings and deploy a needs-assessment poll to determine whether, and to what degree, Wilsonville residents value arts and culture amenities.

In addition to stakeholder interviews and the survey, the Arts Alliance is working to plan a community meeting in October to discuss interview and survey results and draft a strategic action plan.

How do you interact with art? The City of Wilsonville is undertaking a project to gather information to inform the City's strategic investment in artistic and cultural programs and activities. An online survey is available until October 7.

"Our city is poised for great success with a public investment strategy for arts, heritage and culture that engages community stakeholders and area residents," Mayor Tim Knapp said. "A vibrant community with a high residential quality of life, visitor amenities and business development opportunities is accompanied by cultural activities and events."

While observers have noted that members of Wilsonville's arts, heritage and culture community are passionately dedicated to the various elements of their activities, continued concern exists about volunteer fatigue, leadership gaps, audience development and funding support.

"Wilsonville is a community with a rich cultural, political, economic and environmental history," noted City Councilor Charlotte Lehan, who nominated the project for community enhancement funding. "Public investment in arts, heritage and culture is integral to the careful planning and community appeal that draws, residents, families and business managers who want to benefit and participate in an authentic community."

County's Ballot Drop Box Being Moved to City Hall

Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 6. Before you drop off your ballot, take note of where the City's ballot drop box is going to be located.

Wilsonville's only ballot drop, located inside the Wilsonville Library, is being moved to the circular driveway near the main entrance of City Hall.

"Ballot drop boxes are an essential tool for increasing voter access in Clackamas County," said County Clerk Sherry Hall. "We've made a decision to eliminate our indoor boxes countywide in favor of permanently installed outdoor boxes."

Over the past 12 years, Clackamas County voter registration has increased 36 percent. During that same period, voters have indicated a clear preference for ballot drop boxes over mailing in their ballots.

County election officials are responding to these trends by increasing the number of outdoor drop boxes available, and taking steps to ensure that boxes are secure and accessible to voters around the clock.

"We've made a decision to eliminate our indoor boxes countywide in favor of permanently installed outdoor boxes."

"The change also reduces our burden on the library system, and makes it easier to communicate with the public about the availability of our drop boxes," Hall explained.

The new Wilsonville box, to be installed this month, is equipped with features that prevent tampering or the effects of weather conditions, such as heavy rain.

Clackamas County Elections, which is footing the bill for 24 new boxes countywide, says outdoor collection gives election officials more flexibility to collect ballots.

Oregon voters may deposit their ballot at any official drop box in the state, regardless of where they reside. Washington County ballots received in Wilsonville, for example, are forwarded by Clackamas County Elections.

POLICE CHIEF'S CORNER

Distracted Drivers Now Face Stiffer Penalties in Oregon

Every year in the United States, more than 37,000 people are killed in traffic crashes. Another 2.35 million are injured or disabled. Many of these road casualties are the result of distracted driving.

In 2013, 10 percent of fatal crashes, 18 percent of injury crashes, and 16 percent of all motor vehicle traffic crashes were reported as distraction-affected crashes. Our youngest, most inexperienced drivers are most at risk, with 10 percent of distracted driving crashes involving drivers under 20.

Oregon's basic law says it is illegal to drive while holding or using an electronic device (e.g. cell phone, tablet, GPS, laptop). On July 1, new, tougher laws went into effect to further discourage people from driving while distracted.

- A first offense that doesn't contribute to a crash is a Class B violation with a maximum fine of $1,000. The court may suspend the fine if the driver completes an approved distracted driving avoidance class within four months, but the violation will remain on the offender's driving record.

- A second offense, or a first offense contributing to a crash, is Class A violation with a maximum fine of $2,000.
- A third offense within 10 years is a Class B misdemeanor that could result in a maximum fine of $2,500 fine and up to 6 months in jail.

This new law does not apply to drivers 18 and older using hand-held devices, to those parked in a designated parking area or to anyone summoning medical help when no one else is available to make the call.

Exceptions are also made for tow truck or bus drivers following the federal rules for CDL holders, for those using two-way radio for employment purposes, and for HAM radio operators 18 or older.

The law DOES apply to those stopped in traffic, or at a stop light, stop sign, etc., so don't tempt fate. Put your phone away until you arrive safely at your destination.

Robert Wurpes, Chief of Police

Taking Your Dog for a Ride? Think Twice In Extreme Hot Weather

The best place for your pet to be during daytime heat is inside, staying cool.

The Oregon Humane Society encourages you to leave your pet at home when you dash to the store or another errand. On an 85-degree day, a car's interior temperature can climb to 120 degrees in 20 minutes, even with the windows slightly open.

If you see a pet alone in a hot car, write down the car's make, model and license plate number. If possible, ask nearby businesses to help you locate the car's owner. If the owner can't be found, call animal control or the non-emergency police dispatch. Typically, police can only respond to calls about pets who may not survive without immediate help.

Breaking a window is a last resort. A 2017 Oregon law protects people from criminal and civil liability if they break a car window to save a child or animal who is left alone and appears to be in imminent danger. Before a Good Samaritan chooses to break a car window, law enforcement must be contacted. Be mindful that a dog or cat may feel protective of their space or even run off when faced with a stranger.

Rescuers must stay with the animal until first responders arrive or the owner of the car returns. Provide the distressed pet with a bowl of cool water. If possible, bring the pet indoors. If not, create a shady area where the animal can relax, set up a water sprinkler, or place water-soaked towels (or running water) on the pet's head, neck, feet, chest and abdomen.

Route 6 Changes, Villebois Shuttle Goes Green

Route 6 makes a slight change on Sept. 21, skipping the southern most portion of Canyon Creek Road. The new route cuts through the former Xerox campus and meanders through the high tech campus areas off Parkway Ave. To catch the bus from Boeckman Rd., board at the Mentor campus bus stop closest to Parkway Ave.

The popular Villebois Shuttle underwent a color change to distinguish it from the yellow Route 7 for commuter service that also runs in Villebois. The shuttle still serves the same Villebois neighborhoods and shopping destinations by Fred Meyer and Safeway.

The Villebois Shuttle stops along the way when requested.

Building Official Recognized for Educational Program Advocacy

Wilsonville Building Official Dan Carlson (left), pictured with colleague Melissa Gitt at the Oregon Building Officials Association conference, was recognized for re-establishing an educational program that prepares students for careers in building code enforcement.

The City of Wilsonville's Building Official, Dan Carlson, has been recognized by the Oregon Builders Association (OBOA).

Carlson was named the organization's Education Advocate of the Year after he played a vital role in restarting the dormant building inspection technology program at Chemeketa Community College.

The program was suspended for five years because of the significant downturn in the construction industry. As the economy improved and the need for new inspectors increased, Carlson pushed the school to re-establish the program, and worked to restructure the curriculum to meet current industry need.

A graduate of the program, Carlson has also taught classes, invited guest lecturers and mentored students, all in an effort to develop future professionals in his industry.

September is Emergency Preparedness Month

Every Home Emergency Kit Should Include These Essential Items

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) encourages Americans to prepare an emergency supply kit, make a family emergency plan, and be informed about the different types of emergencies that could occur. Residents should have some basic supplies on hand in order to survive for at least three days if an emergency occurs.

Following is a list of basic items that should be included in every emergency supply kit. Individuals should consider having at least two kits, one full kit at home and smaller portable kits in their workplace, vehicle or other place they spend time.

- Water, one gallon per person per day for at least two weeks, for drinking and sanitation
- Food, at least a two-week supply of non-perishable canned/freeze-dried food
- Battery-powered or hand-crank radio and a NOAA Weather Radio with tone alert and extra batteries for both
- Flashlight and extra batteries
- First aid kit
- Whistle to signal for help
- Dust mask, to help filter contaminated air, and plastic sheeting and duct tape to shelter-in-place
- Moist towelettes, garbage bags and plastic ties for personal sanitation
- Wrench or pliers to turn-off utilities
- Can opener
- Local maps
- Extra medicine / other critical personal items

Clackamas County Updates Alert System; Enrollment Available

Clackamas County has upgraded its direct communication with residents, replacing the software system used to communicate emergency notifications.

Wilsonville residents (from either county) can opt-in to receive alerts by visiting publicalerts.org/signup.

Providing current contact information allows residents to receive critical emergency messaging via email, phone call, and text during times of disasters. Important messages that could be relayed include notices to evacuate, shelter-in-place, shelter locations, and other extremely important information.

"This new system — #ClackCo Public Alerts — allows us to utilize Wireless Emergency Alerts and integrate the Emergency Alert System for critical life safety messages," stated Clackamas County Disaster Management Director Nancy Bush.

Clackamas County is urging people to enroll in this new system. Residents enrolled in the previous system — the Clackamas County Emergency Notification System, or CCENS — must re-enroll to receive future messages. #ClackCo Public Alerts is part of the larger Public Alerts coordination website (www.publicalerts.org), used throughout the Portland-Vancouver area to provide public safety, road, weather and other urgent information.

Clackamas County's Disaster Management Department uses a county-wide approach to minimize the impact of natural and human-caused incidents. Department staff identify hazards, develop emergency and mitigation plans, coordinate response activities and train incident personnel. More information can be found at www.clackamas.us/dm.

For more information, contact Jamie Poole, Clackamas County Outreach and Technology Coordinator, at 503-655-8838, jpoole@clackamas.us.

FEMA Website Provides Disaster Preparation Tips, Resources

National Preparedness Month provides an opportunity to focus on planning for disasters.

FEMA recommends learning lifesaving skills (such as CPR and first aid), checking insurance policies and coverage for the hazards you may face, and learning how to take practical safety steps like shutting off water and gas.

Their website, ready.gov, offers preparation tips and includes the following weekly themes:

September 1-8: Make and Practice Your Plan

- Make and practice your emergency plan: ready.gov/make-a-plan
- Have an evacuation plan: ready.gov/evacuation
- Practice your fire escape plan; have a home fire drill with everyone in the home.
- Practice evacuating in the car with your animals.

September 9-15: Practice Life-Saving Skills

- Learn skills you need to help yourself and others until help can arrive: www.ready.gov/untilhelparrives
- Learn how to turn off the gas in your home.
- Install smoke alarms on every level of your home, test them monthly and replace them every 10 years.
- Take a course in CPR or first aid

September 16-22: Check Your Coverage

- Most homeowners' and renters' insurance does not cover flood damage. Learn more about flood insurance at www.floodsmart.gov

September 23-30: Saving for an Emergency

- Plan financially for the possibility of disaster.
- Complete an Emergency Financial First Aid Kit (EFFAK)
- Maintain emergency savings for use in case of an emergency

For more information on how to stay prepared in the event of an emergency, visit ready.gov.

TEN THINGS YOU CAN DO THIS MONTH TO REMAIN PREPARED

1. Identify and secure those items in your home — bookshelves, mirrors, light fixtures — that could fall and cause serious injuries in the event of an earthquake.
2. Prepare an emergency kit (see graphic). Include 14 gallons of water for every member of your household — a gallon a day for two weeks.
3. Sign up to receive emergency alerts on your cell phone at publicalerts.org/signup
4. Identify the location of utility shut-offs and keep needed tools nearby.
5. Develop a family plan. Consider possible home evacuation routes, communication methods, reunification sites.
6. Build community. Talk to nearby friends and/or other neighbors to improve your resilience during a crisis.
7. Create a kit for your car that includes blankets, flares, food, water and other items that can be of assistance in a roadside emergency.
8. Set aside a small monthly budget to help you survive a financial emergency.
9. Visit RedCross.org to donate blood and sign up for classes in CPR or first aid training.
10. Locate and safely store your critical documents, including passports, social security cards, passwords, insurance policies.

Briefs

Cities of Wilsonville, Tualatin Adopt Basalt Creek Concept Plan

In August, the cities of Wilsonville and Tualatin formally adopted the Basalt Creek Concept Plan, which guides the future development of about 847 mostly rural acres — between the two cities — generally referred to as the “Basalt Creek Planning Area.”

Metro added the Basalt Creek area to the Urban Growth Boundary in 2004 to accommodate industrial land needs to meet 20-year growth in the region. The newly-completed plan establishes the overall vision for this future mixed-use, business and residential community.

The plan identifies preferred land uses within the area, establishes a future jurisdictional boundary between Tualatin and Wilsonville, and recommends transportation and infrastructure designs consistent with local, regional and state goals. It outlines an implementation strategy for future services and the protection of natural and cultural resources.

For more information about the plan, a collaboration between planners from Wilsonville and Tualatin, visit basaltcreek.com.

Old Town Project Proceeding at Fred Meyer Entrance

Work is underway to alter an intersection on Boones Ferry Road, at Old Town Square, to allow two lanes of northbound traffic.

The project is one of several transportation improvements designed to mitigate congestion in the vicinity of Wilsonville Road. It sets back the traffic light and sidewalk to accommodate a second lane of through traffic. It also removes a traffic signal from the median.

The project timeline has been extended through September to allow NW Natural to move a gas line.

Notable Actions: City Boards and Commissions

City Council	Action	What it Means
June 18	Adopted the City budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2018.	The $185.8 million budget, approved by the Budget Committee, includes no increase in the tax rate, which remains at $2.5206 per $1,000 of assessed value for general operations.
June 18	Approved several land-use ordinances in the Frog Pond West neighborhood.	The 16-acre, 44-lot single-family “Stafford Meadows” subdivision is the first approved project in Frog Pond West. New construction is slated to begin this summer.
June 18	Adopted a resolution renewing the City's agreement with Wilsonville Community Sharing.	The City grant provides $51,000 to support services—including assistance with rent, food, prescriptions and utility bills—for Wilsonville individuals and families in need.
July 2	Adopted an amendment to the SMART 2017 Transit Master Plan	The amendment identifies and prioritizes proposed service upgrades that could be funded by the new Statewide Transportation Improvement Fund (STIF).
July 2	Approved the annexation and rezoning of 20 acres for the 80-lot single-family “Morgan Farm” subdivision.	The Council approved a revised plan that includes a larger public open space for recreational amenities. This is the second development approved for construction at Frog Pond West.
July 16 August 8	Approved comprehensive plan and zone maps amendments for a 2.22-acre parcel located along Canyon Creek Road South.	This action increases the allowable density of development from 0-1 residential units per acre to the newer standard of 4 to 5 dwellings per acre, enabling development of a five-lot single-family subdivision known as “Aspen Meadows No. 2.”
July 16	Adopted an updated tourism promotion plan that guides City investments of a portion of transient lodging tax revenues generated by visitors' overnight stays.	Recommended for adoption by the Tourism Promotion Committee, the “Five-Year Action Plan and Annual One-Year Implementation Plan” advances key components of the City's tourism-development strategy focused on marketing, capacity-building and a visitor-profile study.
July 16	Authorized an intergovernmental agreement with Metro regional government to exchange federal funds with local funds for two transportation-related projects.	The agreement allows the City to “de-federalize” the proposed I-5 Pedestrian & Bikeway Project, thereby greatly reducing overhead costs and delay, while applying the funds to the federal-supported Kinsman Road extension project that links Barber Street and Boeckman Road along Coffee Lake Creek wetlands.
August 6	Adopted the Concept Plan for the Basalt Creek Planning Area.	The plan guides future land use, transportation and infrastructure investments in an 847-acre area of rural Washington County located between Wilsonville and Tualatin.
August 6	Approved the start of negotiations to upgrade the City's core financial accounting and permitting software.	The $1.1 million software upgrade allows the City to examine existing municipal business processes and improve customer service between City and water/wastewater customers and vendors.

Planning Commission	Action	What it Means
July 11	Recommended adoption of the Basalt Creek Concept Plan	The plan was forwarded to City Council for consideration, and adopted at the August 6 meeting (see above).
August 8	Recommended adoption of the Parks & Recreation Master Plan.	The plan was forwarded to City Council for consideration, and will be considered at the Sept. 6 meeting.
August 8	Postponed adoption of the Boones Ferry Park Master Plan.	Staff will provide the Commission with a more comprehensive final design and consider the plan at the Oct. 10 meeting.

Kids Home Alone After School? Talk to Them About Fire, Life Safety

Wilsonville students are back in class. Many, for the first time, are being trusted to be home alone after school.

Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue encourages parents and caregivers to review fire and life safety tips with them.

Talk to your kids about how and when to call 911 for police, fire, or medical assistance in the event of an emergency.

Children should know their address, phone number, and your contact information so that they can provide that information to the emergency dispatcher.

It's also a good idea to have phone numbers for family and neighbors posted on the refrigerator, near the phone, or on a designated bulletin board in the event kids need assistance but it's not an emergency.

This is also a good time to set house rules on using the stove or microwave. Cooking is one of the leading causes of home fires.

Cooking is one of the leading causes of home fires. Most start on the stovetop due to food or oil being left unattended while being heated.

Most start on the stovetop due to food or oil being left unattended while being heated. The following tips may help your child avoid a fire:

- Allow cooking privileges based on age and maturity. Consider allowing younger children to use a microwave or oven (not the stovetop) to heat food
- Use caution when heating food in a microwave due to the potential for burn injuries.
- If allowed to use the stovetop, never leave food (especially oil) unattended — even for a moment! Pre-teens and teenagers enjoy many activities that can cause them to be distracted and/or forget they're cooking. Remind children to stay by the

New Lowrie Primary Principal Excited to Get Back to School

As the 2018-19 school year begins, Wilsonville welcomes Sarita Amaya as the new principal at Lowrie Primary School.

Amaya most recently served as Assistant Administrator for Multilingual Programs for the Beaverton School District. She brings a broad and diverse background in education to Lowrie Primary, including 14 years as a dual language teacher and a stint at the Oregon Department of Education.

The first-time principal is excited to get the school year underway.

"My little gut feeling always tells me to get back to where you're closest to, which is working with students and teachers," Amaya said. "I think by listening to their stories and building those relationships day in and day out, it makes your decision-making as an administrator that much more effective. I'm excited for children to be in the building so that I can start building those relationships with our students and families."

Amaya says she was drawn to West Linn-Wilsonville because of the district's educational philosophy. She strongly believes in the workshop model and in the district's emphasis on creating lifelong readers and learners. Lowrie's Dual Language Program was an added enticement.

"Growing up with a multi-cultural background I know how important it is to have those cultural ties in a school," she says. "The fact that we can support family connection with this program is huge."

stovetop when cooking. If they need to leave — turn off the burner.

- Keep combustibles such as pot holders, dish towels, food boxes, and magazines away from the stovetop.
- Water and oil do not mix! Never throw water on a grease fire or try to move the flaming pan. Doing so cause the fire to spread or cause burns.
- If a fire occurs, leave the home and call 911 from a cellphone or a neighbor's home.

Other safety tips to share include:

- Keep matches, lighters, or candles away from children and remind them that they are not to be touched by anyone other than an adult.

- Know two escape routes from every room in the house. One of those could be a window. Create and practice a home fire escape plan.
- Do not place combustibles like clothes, blankets, or scarves, over a lamp.
- Do not play with electrical cords or insert anything other than a plug into an electrical socket.
- Never mix cleaning products.
- Know where first-aid supplies are located, and consider signing up older children for a first-aid and CPR class.

WLWV Schools Offer Back-to-School Checklist for Parents

With school now back in session, here is a checklist of important back-to-school information from our partners at West Linn-Wilsonville School District.

2018-19 Bus Routes Now Available

Many stops and routes remain the same, but several have changed to optimize efficiency. To view up-to-date routes, including snow routes, visit the district's website: wlwv.k12.or.us/buses.

Get Connected! Sign up for ListServ

ListServ is the primary method that West Linn-Wilsonville schools communicate with families, sending regular newsletters, timely information, and even emergency notifications.

Visit: wlwv.k12.or.us/News/LatestNews/ListservSS to sign up. Check 'WLWV Homes' to get information from the district office!

Sign up for FlashAlert

West Linn-Wilsonville uses FlashAlert to notify students and families of school closures, delays, and similar events. The system filters out unused accounts; previous subscribers should verify subscriptions at flashalert.net/login.html.

Emergency announcements are also displayed on local TV news channels and posted at the district's website: wlwv.k12.or.us.

Register to Volunteer in WLWV Schools

Last year, the district launched a new volunteer registration system to improve student safety and security. The HelpCounter system helps school staff monitor exactly who is working in WLWV schools.

Interested volunteers can register by visiting HelpCounter.com and clicking 'Start' to fill out an application (which includes a background check). Applications may take up to a week to process, at which time applicants will receive an email of approval.

Volunteers must re-register every three years, or when volunteering at a new school.

Review the 2018-19 School Calendar

The school-year calendar is available at the WLWV website's 'About Us' tab. Calendars differ slightly at the primary, middle, and high school levels.

A recent change was made to the PRIMARY calendar. Primary school students will now attend a full day of school on Monday, April 8. On February 20, March 6, April 10 and May 8, students will be released two hours early to allow teachers time for collaboration.

Question of the Month

Each month, we're asking a question designed to help us gather feedback to help us develop a community-driven vision for the Wilsonville Town Center.

To share your answer, sign up for project updates and get more information, visit Wilsonville-TownCenter.com or contact Miranda Bateschell, Planning Manager, at 503-570-1581, bateschell@ci.wilsonville.or.us.

Would You Wash Your Car in the River?

Washing your car in the driveway can deliver the same outcome as washing your car in the river. Heavy metals, oils, and gasoline all mix into the soap used to wash your car at home. This polluted, soapy water washes down driveways into storm drains and into the Willamette River. Protect the river, salmon, and your drinking water by washing your car on grass, gravel or at a commercial car wash.

Notice of City of Wilsonville Public Hearing
Wilsonville City Hall, 29799 SW Town Center Loop East
SMART Programs Enhancement Strategy

On Wednesday, Sept. 12, 6 pm, the Wilsonville Planning Commission is hosting a public hearing regarding adoption of the SMART Programs Enhancement Strategy (Case File # LP18-0009). Oral or written testimony may be presented at the hearing.

The Planning Commission will consider whether to recommend adoption of the amendment to the City Council, which is scheduled to hold a public hearing on the proposal on Oct. 1.

The Programs Enhancement Strategy, an amendment to the 2017 Transit Master Plan, includes a robust list of projects vetted by the public. It satisfies requirements set forth in the state plan submittal process to be eligible to receive funding from the Statewide Transportation Improvement Fund (STIF), a new revenue source established with the passage of House Bill 2017 (HB2017).

For more information on the SMART Programs Enhancement Strategy, or to submit written comment, contact Nicole Hendrix, Transit Mgmt. Analyst, 503-570-1497; hendrix@ridesmart.com.

Water Feature Season Ends Soon

Sunday, Sept. 16, 10 am–8 pm, is the last day that the City’s two water features, located at Murase Plaza and Town Center Park, are open for public enjoyment.

Two Final Farmers Markets

Sofia Park, in Villebois, is hosting its final Farmers Markets of the 2018 season on Sept. 6 and Sept. 13. The market operates Thursdays, 4-8 pm. Come for farm fresh food, stay for the live music. For more information, visit wilsonvillefarmersmarket.com.

Correctional Facility Advisory Committee to Hold Public Meeting Oct. 4

The Coffee Creek Correctional Facility Prison Advisory Committee (PAC) will have a public meeting Thursday, October 4, 6 pm, in the Oak Room of the Wilsonville Library.

The agenda includes departmental updates by the facility’s superintendent and executive management team.

The purpose of the PAC is to serve as a citizen advisory group to the facility regarding correctional issues, activities and practices affecting the community.

The PAC also serves as a conduit for information disseminated to and received from the public.

At the conclusion of the meeting there will be a public comment period.

Wilsonville STAGE Starts 2018-19 Season at Charbonneau Country Club

WilsonvilleSTAGE kicks off its 2018-2019 season with the Noel Coward comedy “Blithe Spirit,” which follows the exploits of socialite and novelist, Charles, who invites an eccentric spiritual medium, Madame Arcati, into his home to conduct a séance as research for his next book.

Everything goes hilariously wrong, causing his deceased, temperamental first wife, Elvira, to haunt him and make him look like a fool in front of his second wife, Ruth, who cannot hear or see Elvira.

Director Sarah Ominski is excited to bring the classic 1941 play to Wilsonville.

“I love Noël Coward, his social commentary and witty dialog,” Ominski said. “It’s wonderful and so funny.”

Watch the comic mayhem unfold, Oct. 26-29, 7:30 pm, at the Charbonneau Country Club.
