

July 1, 2023 BUILDING PERMIT FEES

VALUATION – Commercial and Residential

New Construction:

Permit fees are based on the valuation of a project. Per OAR 918-050-0100, the valuation is the higher of:

1. The valuation based on the International Code Council (ICC) Building Valuation Data Table current as of April 1 of each year, using the occupancy and construction type as determined by the Building Official, multiplied by the square footage of the structure; or
2. The value stated by the applicant.

Alteration or Repair: Permit fees are calculated based on the fair market value of all construction work for which the permit is issued. A contractor's bid may be required to confirm the valuation.

Determination of Valuation: The determination of valuation shall be made by the Building Official. The valuation used in computing the permit fee and plan check fee shall be the total value of all project costs. Except as noted, project costs shall include the completion of an entire structure from start to finish including such items as structural, electrical, plumbing, mechanical, interior and exterior finish work, and normal site preparation. Valuation shall include the contractor's profit. Valuation shall not include the cost of land or design work.

Use the total value of construction work as determined above to calculate the Building Permit Fee below.
