City Adds Residential Food Scrap Recycling Republic Services to Offer New Collection Services, Reduce Recycling Surcharge by 50%

The new year is bringing several new recyclingcollection services to Wilsonville homes and businesses, including food scrap collection for residential customers with yard debris bins.

The City and Republic Services have reached an agreement to establish several new services and to reduce the monthly recycling surcharge by 50 percent. The City Council adopted the proposal in December, with phased implementation set to begin this year.

"We're in a unique and fortunate position to provide a higher level of service at no cost to residents or local businesses," said Mayor Tim Knapp. "In fact, residents will actually see a small decrease in their monthly bill."

The City's Solid Waste Franchise Agreement with Republic Services, adopted by City Council in May 2018, provided an opportunity for the City to review service rates after one year. The City commissioned an auditor with an expertise in solid-waste franchise finances to undertake the review, which showed that Republic Services' operating margin had climbed well above the acceptable range of 8% to 12%. The new franchise agreement, which replaced a 30-year-old ordinance, was based on modern professional standards that exclude the inclusion of federal and state income taxes as a deductible expense by franchisee and provide for a five percent City franchise fee. Introducing new services and reducing the temporary the City Council, City staff posted a survey on "Let's Talk,

ver the years, the City and other Wilsonville property owners have invested in art, providing aesthetic beauty, character and inspiration to residents and visitors who encounter these works displayed throughout town.

The City Council values the City's art collection, and recently tasked City staff with building an inventory and making the collection more accessible to anyone with an interest in visiting or learning more about the pieces displayed in Wilsonville.

City staff has accomplished this 2019-2021 Council Goal, and community members can now access the inventory and view images of each piece on the City's website, at ci.wilsonville.or.us/public-art.

A virtual tour was designed using an ArcGIS Story-Map, which is accessible from desktop computers and mobile devices. The page provides a snapshot of where each piece is located, and includes photos and other details to allow community members and visitors to view images, learn about the work, or plan their own personalized art tour.

The tour includes well known pieces, such as "Apachie," the horse who stands in front of the Parks > are also featured, including the fountains designed by architect Robert Murase at the Water Treatment Plant.

The City's GIS intern, Jayme Taylor, researched the project and took photographs of several pieces to provide a captivating tour, which can be updated as new pieces are added or discovered.

To learn more or to suggest additional pieces to be included in the tour, contact Zoe Monahan, Assistant to the City Manager, monahan@ci.wilsonville.or.us, 503-570-1503.

Mayor's Message Our Great Outdoor Spaces Are Worth Continued Investment

For many, city parks and recreation areas are where a lifetime of memories are made: family picnics, ball games, nature walks, summer concerts, trips to the playground, splashes in the fountain.

A strong parks system provides so many other benefits, too. Parks and natural areas allow area wildlife to flourish, they improve our air quality, raise property values, increase connectivity for pedestrians and cyclists and add aesthetic value for residents and visitors alike.

While it is never easy to build consensus, an overwhelming majority of residents agree that Wilsonville's parks, natural areas, sports fields and other recreational areas contribute a great deal to the enjoyment of living here.

In 2018, 97 percent of respondents to our Community Survey rated Wilsonville's parks highly; 95 percent said Wilsonville was a good/excellent place to raise a family.

The City Council shares your affinity for highquality outdoor amenities, which positively affect our mental and physical well-being in so many ways. With public support, we would like to build the parks and amenities prioritized through public input during the development of the Parks Master Plan. New recreational spaces will allow current and future generations to enjoy our prized natural areas as Wilsonville continues to evolve.

Recently, Wilsonville Parks and Recreation established an 18-person Parks Bond Task Force. Their job is to help City staff perform due diligence before a determination is made whether to put a future Parks Bond Measure before voters.

Representing a wide array of the City's geographic interests and activity groups, the Task Force is meeting periodically between now and March to review the City's adopted long-range plans, to identify development projects for consideration, and to help prioritize future projects. This important work is helping the City determine the preferred timing, approximate cost and public support of a Parks Bond before a decision is made.

I encourage you to attend a public meeting of the Parks Bond Task Force if you'd like to learn more about the process and/or some the great projects that our community could pursue with adequate parks funding. Tuesday night Task Force meetings are scheduled at City Hall, 6 pm, on Jan. 14, Jan. 28, Feb. 11, Feb. 25 and Mar. 10.

If you have questions, you can reach out to Mike McCarty, our Parks & Recreation Director, at 503-570-1579 or mccarty@ci.wilsonville.or.us. Or, as always, you can share your thoughts with me or any member of City Council by phone, by mail or at an upcoming meeting of the City Council. We welcome your thoughts and ideas, and look forward to sharing more information in the near future.

Uniquely, the Bowes Award recipient is selected each year by the previous year's winner. Kerber was selected to receive the honor by 2018 Bowes Award recipient Nikki Messenger, currently the City Manager for the City of Roseburg.

"It didn't take me long to decide she was the one," Messenger said of Kerber, "Delora doesn't just participate, she makes things happen."

Kerber, the City's Emergency Management Program lead, joined the City of Wilsonville in 2006.

New Recycling Collection Services Scheduled to Begin in 2020

Residential Food-Scraps Collection: Residential customers who have yard debris cart service will be able to add kitchen food scraps to the cart. This program is scheduled to launch in the spring.

Styrofoam Collection/Recycling: Republic Services will set up a collection station at the WRI transfer facility for residents and commercial/industrial customers to deposit clean Styrofoam packaging for recycling. The program is expected to be available as early as March.

Bulky Waste Pick-up for ADA/Senior Citizens: Wilsonville seniors and residents with disability will be offered home pick-up of large/bulky waste items free of charge. This limited-duration program could begin as early as February.

Commercial/Industrial Fluorescent Tubes/Batteries Box Mail-Back Service: For a limited time, beginning as early as March, local businesses would be to obtain at no charge "recycling box mail-back" service for 48-inch fluorescent tubes and batteries.

Commercial Food-Scraps Collection Program: This Metro-mandated program starts in March 2020 and requires the region's greatest food-waste producers to separate food scraps from garbage for composting. This commercial food-scraps composting program is scheduled to expand over a threeyear period to encompass businesses of all sizes that generate food scraps.

residential composting at the top of the list, with Styrofoam recycling a close second.

Commercial wood-pallet collection and residential battery recycling were also considered, but both the City and Republic Services agreed that there were significant impediments to successful implementation.

Additionally, the City is working with Republic Services to obtain as a public-benefit a credit towards the Public Works Department's collection and disposal of street-sweepings and leaves from road sides and rightof-ways. Implementation of this service is estimated to save the City $100,000 per year on current disposal costs of street-sweeping matter.

Recycling Surcharge Reduction

The reduction in the residential recycling surcharge, from $2.50/month to $1.25/month, is possible due to both higher operating margin and a bottoming-out

Locally, Republic Services conducts operations at the WRI waste/recycling transfer station at 10295 SW Ridder Rd.

Clackamas County Libraries Launch 5th Annual Teen Art Contest

The Libraries in Clackamas County (LINCC) invite interested teens to submit original artwork for the fifth annual Teen Summer Reading CLACKAMA Artwork contest. This year's theme is "Imagine Your Story."

Submissions are welcome until Jan. 31 from artists between the ages of 12 and 18 (or enrolled in grade 6-12) at the time of submission. Entries must honor the theme and should be produced in color, without text.

"The LINCC Teen Art Contest is a favorite every year," said Rebecca Mayer, Teen & Tween Librarian at the West Linn Public Library. "Not only does it give us a chance to honor the artistic skills and talents of our Clackamas County teens and promote the summer reading program, but it's the perfect example of the many ways to tell a story."

be used by LINCC throughout the county for all summer reading promotional materials such as posters, forms, flyers and social media.

A $100 cash gift card will be awarded for first place; honorable mentions may also be recognized.

For more information, complete contest rules and an entry form, visit lincc.org and click on "Library Events." You can also obtain an entry form by visiting any of the 13 libraries in the county.

City Grants Available to Support Tourism, Community Projects

Wilsonville Parks and Recreation is accepting applications for The Community Tourism Grant Program and the Community Opportunity Grant Program, which together allocate $50,000 to local organizations to support projects that benefit community groups, residents and visitors to Wilsonville.

The Community Tourism Grant Program awards up to $25,000 annually to organizations that produce projects, programs or events that attract visitors. Funding comes from transient room taxes assessed on overnight lodging visitors. Tourism Grant applications are accepted until Friday, Feb. 7, after which the Tourism Promotion Committee reviews requests and determines awards.

The Community Opportunity Grant Program provides $25,000 from the City's general fund each year to support a wide range of local programs and projects that promote education, diversity, arts or community involvement in the city. The Parks and Recreation Advisory Board reviews requests and distributes awards twice annually. Applications are due Friday, March 6.

In partnership with Clackamas County, a third grant source is available for projects and events designed to attract visitors to the community from throughout the region.

The Clackamas County Community Partnership Grant, in partnership with Clackamas County Tourism, awards funding to local tourism projects that aim to increase the numbers of tourist visitors and the economic impact of tourism. Up to $15,000 is available for projects that increase overnight lodging stays in Clackamas County, bring visitors into communities from greater than 50 miles away to shop, dine, recreate, take in arts or cultural offerings, or visit heritage sites and entice visitors to "linger longer." The application deadline is Thursday, Feb. 20.

City Seeks Community Enhancement Project Nominations Program Provides Funding for Wide Range of Community Improvement Projects

The Wilsonville-Metro Community Enhance-I ment Program, which provides funding for a wide array of community-led improvement projects, is accepting project nominations until Jan. 31.

Community Enhancement Project Submission Deadline Fri, Jan. 31 ci.wilsonville.or.us/CEP

Eligible projects can improve the appearance or environmental quality of the community, increase reuse and recycling opportunities or improve recreational areas and programs. Any organization may nominate a Community Enhancement project by completing the following steps:

- 1. Contact Zoe Monahan to set up a preliminary discussion to discuss project eligibility.
- 2. Submit the nomination form, available at ci.wilsonville.or.us/CEP, by Jan. 31.

Proposals are to be evaluated by the Wilsonville-Metro Community Enhancement Committee, which includes Mayor Tim Knapp, City Councilor Joann Linville, four appointed community members and Metro Councilor Craig Dirksen. The committee expects to announce award recipients in early spring.

Funded by a per-ton charge on biodegradable solid-waste, the Community Enhancement Program is provided to all cities with a waste-transfer facility, including the Willamette Resources Inc. facility in Wilsonville operated by Republic Services.

More than $30,000 in community enhancement funds are available to support projects that "rehabilitate and enhance" areas within Wilsonville city limits. Funded projects must start after July 1, 2020, and completed within two years. Community Enhancement Project goals can include:

- Improving the appearance or environmental quality of the community.
- Reducing the amount or toxicity of waste and increase reuse and recycling opportunities.
- Upgrading property owned or operated by a nonprofit organization.
- Preserving or enhancing wildlife habitat, riparian zones, wetlands, forest lands, and/or improving the public awareness and access.
- Expanding recreational areas and programs.
- Benefiting underserved populations.

Project funded in recent years include the Graham Oaks Pedestrian Crossing Improvements, the Memorial Park dog park relocation, the "Bee Stewards" pollinator improvement project and many others.

The City's public engagement website, "Let's Talk, Wilsonville!", includes a Community Enhancement "ideas board" where community members may suggest projects that meet the above criteria.

POLICE CHIEF'S CORNER

Take Extra Care Behind Wheel When Bad Weather Hits

Mhen winter weather arrives, I wish I could just suggest you drive south until you see palm trees, but that wouldn't be prudent. So let's start the New Year brushing up our tips for driving in severe weather, especially snow and ice.

The best advice I can give you is not to drive at all if you can avoid it. Stay home or take public transit; Police Chief SMART buses are equipped with chains, when necessary, to deliver passengers safely.

When driving is your only suitable option, please use extreme care, and take these extra precautions before you get underway.

- Visit TripCheck.com for up-to-date travel and road conditions.
- Clear all snow and ice from the windows and hood to maximize visibility.
- Check your gas gauge; fill your tank before you go too far.
- Prepare an emergency kit to remain safe and warm in the event you get stuck or stranded.
- Carry chains that fit your vehicle's tires; practice chaining up ahead of time.

Once behind the wheel, remember to allow extra travel time when going to a time-sensitive appointment; you're likely to encounter delays. Remain alert and prepared for black ice, which can appear at any time.

Rob Wurpes

Also, remember the following:

- Avoid tailgating. For every 10 miles per hour you are traveling, leave at least one car length.
- If you have to pull over for any reason, use the right-hand shoulder and remain as far away from traffic as possible.
- During nighttime driving, your vision may be impaired slightly. Drive defensively and at a safe distance.
- Call 9-1-1 to report drivers who appear to be intoxicated.

If you install chains, put them on in a safe and level area, wear a waterproof tarp to keep dry, and keep children and pets safe in the car. Shortly after installation, pull over in a safe place to check and re-tighten your tire chains to ensure they fit snuggly. Stop immediately and pull over if a chain fails or comes loose.

Don't drive faster than 30 miles per hour when using chains. Accelerate and decelerate slowly. Avoid spinning or locking your wheels.

Be safe out there, and please share these road safety tips with new drivers in your home.

Wishing you and your family has a safe and prosperous new year.

Winterize Your Home to Avoid Costly Water Leaks

s temperatures drop this winter, remem-Aber that taking a few simple precautions around your home can prevent frozen water pipes ... and the costly property damage from the water leaks that may result.

When water freezes, it expands. If the temperature of your pipes drops below 32 degrees, even for a short period, the risk of a leak increases.

For starters, know where your main waterline shut-off valve is before problems arise. Depending on the age of your home, the valve could be inside the garage, crawlspace, laundry room or in your yard, underground. Some homes do not have a shut-off valve.

If you turn on your faucet and nothing comes out, your pipes may be frozen. If you hear water or have reason to believe your pipe has split, shut off your water immediately. Otherwise, try to thaw pipes using a hair dryer on low setting. Wave the warm air back and forth along the pipe, not on one spot. Never use a torch or open flame, which could cause the pipe to burst or set the house on fire.

Checking your water meter can be an effec-If the temperature of your tive way of checking pipes drops below 32 for leaks. If the low degrees, even for a short flow dial is turning or, period, the risk of a leak if numbers are movincreases. ing while you are not intentionally using water, shut off your water. You may have a water leak. Monitor your water bill. High water consumption with no changes to your usage habits can be a good indicator that something is wrong. Preventative maintenance is the best way to avoid problems. Follow these winterization tips, especially when extreme weather is forecast:

Covering exposed hose bibbs is one easy way to reduce your chance of suffering a burst water pipe during severe winter weather.

Inside Your Home

- Keep the temperature in your home at 55 degrees or higher
- Open cupboard doors below sinks to allow warm air to circulate
- Insulate pipes in unheated areas (crawl space, garage, outside, etc.)
- Run a small trickle of water from a faucet during extreme cold. (a 100-cubic-foot unit of water costs $3.44, much less than the cost of fixing a leak.)

Outside Your Home

- Cover crawl space vents around the exterior of your home.
- Disconnect hoses and cover hose bibs.
- Shut off irrigation systems and drain the lines so no standing water remains in the pipes.

TVF&R's Tips for a Safer 2020

Λ*T*^{ith} New Year's resolutions on everyone's mind, now's a perfect time to commit to safety steps that can help you and your family in 2020, and also save you time and money by avoiding winter-related damage to your home or business.

Our crews typically see an increase in outdoor-related injuries near the first of the year. To minimize your risk of personal injury, keep the following in mind:

- Remain aware. We see an increase in slip and fall injuries this time of year.
- Be extra careful on icy surfaces around your home — use kitty litter or sand to increase traction.
- Dress appropriately for outdoor activity; layer items and wear hats, gloves and waterproof boots.
- Remember that the windchill factor can often lower the temperature by several degrees.
- Avoid travel when the weather service issues storm advisories.
- If you travel, make sure someone knows where you are going, when you expect to arrive and the route you plan to take.
- Pack extra water, food, blankets and clothing in case of an unexpected emergency or delay. At home, there are also steps you can take to ensure your safety this winter.

• Have your home heating system serviced professionally to make sure that it is clean, working

If you believe you may have a water leak, call the Utility Billing Department at 503-570-1610; the City will dispatch a water crew member to help determine whether you have a leak. "With the rate at which Wilsonville is growing, why do we not have our own police department?" - Kendra

The Clackamas County Sheriff's Office continues to provide a great benefit to the Wilsonville community. The partnership, which dates nearly 50 years, affords the City access to an array of law enforcement services - a K9 unit, SWAT, Dive and Marine Unit, Hostage Negotiation, among others that are not typically available to a city of our size. The model is cost-effective, yet still provides the City with the latitude to increase staffing levels, as needed, when there is an increase in the demand for police services.

- properly and ventilated to the outside.
- If you are heating with wood, inspect and clean fireplaces and chimneys.
- Always discard ashes in a metal container away from combustible materials.
- Check your smoke alarms to ensure they are working properly.
- Prevent carbon monoxide (CO) emergencies by installing a CO alarm in your home.

Also, we recommend you take a few moments to familiarize yourself with the water shut off for your home/business, as TVF&R firefighters respond to frequent calls about bursting water pipes that begin flowing water. Businesses and homeowners suffer thousands of dollars in damage because they don't know how to stop the water from flowing.

Knowing how to shut off your water and calling a professional can prevent significant damage to your home. Also, don't forget to insulate exposed water pipes in the garage and cover outdoor water spigots.

During region-wide weather events, first responders must prioritize their response to life-safety incidents. Visit tvfr.com for more winter safety tips.

City Says Thanks, Goodbye to Two Departing Planning Commissioners

ecember's Planning Commission meeting marked the end of the line for two long-time commissioners, Peter Hurley and Eric Postma, whose terms have expired.

Between them, Hurley and Postma provided more than 25 years of volunteer service to the community on City boards and commissions. Each served on the Development Rewiew Board (DRB) before appointment to the Planning Commission in 2011.

City staff showered praise on the departing commissioners as their final meeting neared conclusion.

"Both Peter and Eric have given selflessly of themselves for the betterment of the community that they love," said Community Development Director Chris Neamtzu. "They both have very full work lives and wonderful families filled with tons of activities, yet somehow they find time to give back."

Added Planning Director Miranda Bateschell: "We've worked through a lot of projects together, often difficult. I want to thank you for your honesty, your commitment and for standing up for what you believe to be best for the community."

Notable Actions: City Boards and Commissions

City Council Action Dec. 2 Council adopted on first reading an ordinance that updates the City Building Code to provide local regulatory guidance for the administration of state building codes, among other changes. Dec. 2 Council approved a contract with OBEC Consulting Engineers for nearly $1.4 million to provide surveying, design, permitting, acquisition support and public engagement services to launch the I-5 Pedestrian Bridge Project

What it Means

The revision, made necessary after recent state legislation, ensures that consistent, accepted safety standards remain in place for all City structures.

The bike/pedestrian connection between the westside and the Town Center area is a key component of the Transportation System Plan and the Wilsonville Town Center Plan, serving as a catalyst for a vibrant mixed-use district.

I-5 Pedestrian Bridge Design Project Scheduled to Begin in February

In February, the City is begin-ning work to design the I-5 Pedestrian Bridge and Town Center Gateway Plaza, a longrange project to connect neighborhoods and locations bisected TOWN CENTER by Interstate 5.

The new bridge would provide safe, efficient travel over the Interstate for cyclists and pedestrians, and provide an important connection from the Wilsonville Transit Center to the Town Center Loop.

"Wilsonville is split into east and west, with limited connections between," said Zach Weigel, Capital Projects Engineering Manager. "The bridge will link neighborhoods and aid commuters by providing a direct connection from SMART Central and the WES to employment centers and eastside communities."

The proposed bridge would extend from the westside — at Boones Ferry Rd. and Barber St. — over the Interstate to a new eastside plaza to be built at Town Center Loop. The project supports a Council goal, and

"The bridge will link neighborhoods and aid commuters by providing a direct connection from SMART Central and the WES to employment centers and eastside communities."

is an early step in the implementation of the recently-adopted Town Center Master Plan.

"A key feature of the Town Center Plan is a chain of trails, cycle tracks, small plazas and green spaces through Town Center that connect Town Center Park and Memorial Park to the I-5 Pedestrian Bridge," Planning Director Miranda Bateschell said. "The bridge is a critical step toward achieving the community's vision for an accessible downtown community gathering place."

A Metro Regional Flexible Fund grant of $1.55 million is funding the project, which will yield a "shovelready" design that allows construction to begin quickly after a funding source is secured.

Project leaders are still finalizing public outreach activities, which will include a survey and a February public event with the project team (date, time and location TBD). Community input is helping the project team to identify preferred design elements and to determine the look and feel of both the bridge and plaza.

Public engagement activities are being posted at "Let's Talk, Wilsonville!", the City's public engagement website, as they become available. To sign up for updates, complete a survey or learn more about meetings and other activities, visit LetsTalkWilsonville.com.

Willamette Falls Locks Commission Advances Corporation Concept

Tn December, members of the Willamette Falls Locks LCommission voted unanimously to recommend to the Oregon Legislative Assembly to form a public corporation to take over ownership and control of the Locks.

Willamette Falls Locks

Located between West Linn and OrCOMMISSION

egon City, the Locks were opened in 1873 to provide passage around the Willamette Falls to facilitate commerce on the Willamette River. The Locks were closed due to deterioration of key components in 2011 by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which seeks to dispose of the Locks either through transfer to another entity or permanent closure.

In order to determine if the Locks could be repaired and reopened, the legislature created the Commission in 2017 with members that include legislators, businesses, state agencies and local governments; the City of Wilsonville is represented by City Councilor Joann Linville.

Wilsonville has one of the few remaining commercial businesses, Wilsonville Concrete and Marine Industrial LLC, that has utilized the Locks for decades to move barges of aggregate and other commodities on the river rather than by truck on local roads. The Legislature is expected to consider forming a public corporation and funding for capital repairs of the Locks during the February 2020 legislative session.

Wilsonville's State Legislators to Convene for Short Legislative Session

The Oregon Legislative Assembly convenes Feb. 3 for the 35-day "short" session held during even-numbered years. The City of Wilsonville's representation in both State legislative bodies is split, with the Willamette River serving as the dividing line. Briefs

OIT Medical Science Program Graduates 42

n December, 42 stu-dents graduated from the Medical Laboratory

Science (MLS) at the Wilsonville campus of Oregon Institute of Technology.

MLS specialists provide laboratory information and services needed for the diagnosis and treatment of disease. OIT operates the only four-year degree program in the state, boasting a job placement rate of nearly 100 percent within six months of graduation. Graduates earn average starting salaries of $57,000 and are employed at virtually every medical lab in Oregon.

The MLS program prepares students with an intensive curriculum, strong in biology and chemistry emphases; labs that include analysis of human samples on the latest equipment; and a four-month, 40-hour-aweek externship at one of more than 60 medical facilities that partner with Oregon Tech.

The highly-competitive program admits only 50 students a year. Attrition rates are less than 2 percent.

MLS graduates have a wide field of employment from which to choose and can be found working as medical laboratory generalists in hospitals, clinics or commercial laboratories; as specialists in areas such as microbiology, hematology, molecular biology/DNA, immunology, stem cell/bone marrow labs; or as quality management specialists in hospitals or industry operations such as pharmaceuticals.
