INTRODUCTION / BACKGROUND INFORMATION

As part of the developing an Arts, Culture and Heritage Strategy, the City of Wilsonville is undertaking a “cultural assets inventory,” which is a listing of the people, places, organizations and events recognized as a community’s self-expression of culture. That is, a cataloguing of people’s lives and values as expressed in art, music, stories and personal connections that make the Wilsonville area unique. Area residents are invited to identify a wide range of people, places, organizations and events as a “cultural asset.”

The survey for submission of cultural assets is open for public input through July 31, 2020.

The cultural assets inventory is foundational to the advancement of an Arts, Culture and Heritage Strategy that provides a roadmap for supporting the development, growth, and sustainability of vibrant local culture. The inventory helps to identify existing cultural assets and the challenges and opportunities facing these assets, and can also suggest gaps within existing cultural assets and the cultural life of Wilsonville. Additions to the cultural assets inventory are public records to be reviewed by members of the Arts, Culture and Heritage Strategy Task Force as part of the planning process.

For more information about the Arts, Culture and Heritage Strategy, please see www.ci.Wilsonville.or.us/ArtsCultureStrategy.

Definitions

By “arts” we mean those practices and disciplines that grow our expressive minds, skills, and encourage creativity and compassion.

By “culture” we mean those traditions, skills, practices that unite us and from which we draw our individuality, and also practices that build our critical thinking and awareness.

- By “formal culture” we mean primarily public, private non-profit, or private-for-profit heritage, history, humanities organizations or individuals (cultural practitioners/cultural workers) and their work.
- By “informal culture” we mean experiences such as community theater, singing in a church choir, traditional or social dancing, belonging to a book club, or participating in a community garden.

Both formal and informal culture are elements of a healthy community culture.

By “heritage” we mean those events, sites, elements of our culture that are inherited and have a special place in our collective memory. “History” chronicles our past.

These definitions are grounded in the understanding that we are all a product of and participate in culture: we inherit parts of our culture and are continually making, changing, and transforming other elements of our culture. (2018 Clackamas County Plan for Arts, Heritage, and Humanities)

How can a cultural inventory be used?

A cultural asset inventory can be:
• A starting point for cultural planning that helps create common understanding of a community’s cultural resources and areas of challenges and growth.
• A vehicle to better understand local cultural organizations, groups, practitioners.
• A tool for people looking for a specific cultural practitioner. For example, a school may turn to the inventory to find artists, crafts persons, historians, storytellers and others who can support the work of classroom teachers.
• A great way for youth and others to learn skills of research and dig deeper into key elements of their communities. The process builds new connections, engagement and, pride in community.
• A community organizing tool – a way to know community members and identify their special skills and talents, and ultimately connect them with programs, services, and the cultural life of the community.
• A tool for planners and community developers looking for creative avenues of revitalization, community development, or community promotion.
• A tool for reaching creative practitioners needing assistance with recovery from the coronavirus pandemic.
